

a.) Describe Open- Source Software with Example.

Ans . Open Source Software is different software where the software is distributed with its source code, making it available for use, modification, and distribution with its original rights. This is a software where the source code is publicly available. This means this users can modify software to suit their needs.

Example : Firefox, Alfresco, Open-Office.

b.) Describe Free Software with example.

Ans. Free Software is a term that describes software that allows users to freely look at the programming code, modify it, distribute it, and use it without any restriction. The best example of free software is Linux, an operating system that is proposed as an alternative to Windows or other proprietary operating systems.

c.) FREE SOURCE

OPEN SOURCE

1.) Freedom to run program for any Purpose.

1.) It has distributed of License.

2.) Freedom to study about program.

2.) Availability of source code.

3.) Freedom to distribute copies of software.

3.) Free Distribution.

4.) Freely available but copyrighted.

4.) It is good for business.

5.) It is good for morality of society.